John,

As we discussed the bond was written and bound several months ago and all parties have accepted the terms.

I have sent the request to change the wording to the underwriter and all that I have received in return was a question.

I thought this was already settled?

Based on this response and short time left on the bond itself .I do not feel that cooperation to change the wording is going to be easily accepted by the bond company.

Thanks,

Danny Sellers | Vice President
